Heather Daley, Senior, is certainly surrounded by more than meets the eye. At first glance, her companions are a wide array of wacky and weird characters. When one looks a little closer, he sees that they are just spirited Whitman-Hanson students expressing their unique personalities on Halloween Dress-Up Day.

RETROSPECT 1996

Below: The eyes of Whitman-Hanson Seniors tell a story of excitement for the future and sadness to leave friends and memories made in the past four years. The owner of these eyes is given on page 178 ... can you guess?

Below: The eyes of Kerry Derosier and Hilary Taylor, though hidden by their fashionable sunglasses, show the friendship of the two girls, even before the days of high school cheerleading.

Right: No, Mr. and Mrs. W-H are not just popular! They represent the ultimate in Senior Superlatives. Shawn Kain and Jill Baglole were voted by the Class of 1996 as those who most demonstrated Panther spirit and involvement.

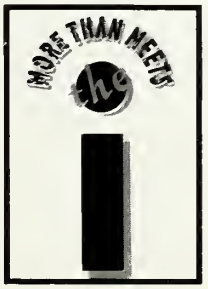
SENIORS
MORE THAN IMAGES

The images presented on the following pages represent more than just what meets the eye. As we've grown to what we are today, members of a strong-spirited Senior class ready to end our days at Whitman-Hanson, all of the images in this section of the yearbook have helped to make us what we are. They have been parts of all of our lives, whether they appear here with the memories, the superlatives, or our pets. We've made memories with friends that we'll remember forever, we've watched the Superlative winners grow to represent the very best of Whitman-Hanson, we've taken pride in the unique fashion seen around the halls of Whitman-Hanson, we've danced and partied all night long at the Junior Prom, we've enjoyed each and every relaxing day that summer has had to offer, and, through it all, we've hung out with our pets without even realizing that they are a part of it all. The Class of 1996 has left its mark on Whitman-Hanson, and our mark is made up of memories that will remain in our hearts forever.



Memories are those special thoughts we all treasure. As we move from day to day, we don't think about the impact that day will have on us. But, every second of every day becomes a memory before we even realize what is happening.

Stephanie Souza, a W-H senior, is aware of this and says, "Every memory is an experience and every experience is a memory." The memories we create will last forever as long as we keep looking back on them.

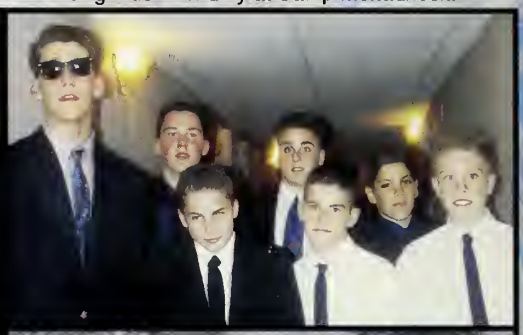
MEMORIES

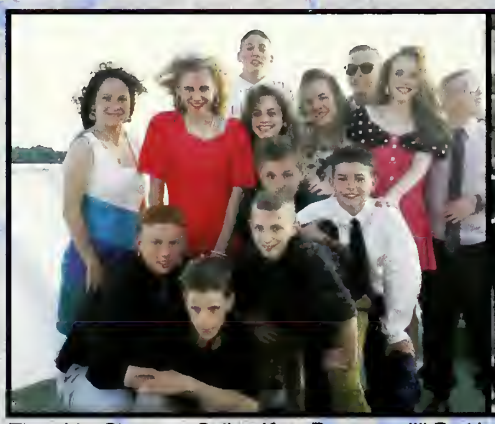
This section of the yearbook will help us to do this. It is dedicated to the memories we made throughout our early lives. When we think about memories created in school, ones such as graduating from eighth grade, or an event as recent as the Junior/Senior Semi seem to come to mind. But the most memorable ones are often the ones we didn't expect - the wild and crazy times with close friends ... the not so outrageous times, the new experiences with new people, or just all the odd people and fun things we came across together. All these memories are the great ones we hope we will never forget.

So, as we look at the next few pages and remember all the great memories of the past ... also remember there are many more great memories to be created in the future.

Christen Emery and Jill Baglole have school spirit written all over their faces as they cheer on the Varsity Girls' Basketball Team, as the team competes against an important opponent.

Directly Below:Chris McEwan, Chad Finley, Jeff Kailher, Shawn Kain, Mike Crowley, Dave Hassan, and Chad Lyons are dressed to impress on the 8th grade trip.
Below: Bonnie MacDonald, Diane Milligan, Lisa Finocchi, and Michelle Hammond are by no means afraid to get down-n-dirty at Camp Monadnock.





The girls, Shannon Colby, Katy Pearson, Jill Parkinson, Kelly Crovo, and Lauren Belden, smile as they think of throwing the guys, George Finigan, Jason Lawrence, Jim Byrne, Ryan Morgan, Tom Finn, Tom Cannon, and Josh Dineen, overboard during the Spirit of Philadelphia dinner cruise.

Say Cheese! Kristina F. Johnson, Christine Keane, and Agnes Marriott smile big for the camera outside the Colosseum in Europe. (Don't ask about the people in the back!)

Katy Pearson and Colleen Mylett are "barred" from their food while waiting to open presents for a friend's birthday at TGI Friday's.

Filled with facts and information about Washington D.C., these eighth graders are duly impressed with our nation's capitol city.

Smiles all around from Meredith Grabowski, Jen Gross, Laura DeChellis, Kerry Derosier, Hilary Taylor, Jill Winston, Kristen McKinnon and Erica Donahue who use a circle to represent the strength of their friendship.

Heather Daley and Sue Farrell show that they really know how to party (even back in 1987) as Heather roots on her favorite team and Sue plays her party tunes.

Kelly Crovo, Lauren Belden, Katy Pearson, Jill Parkinson, and Shannon Colby try to look cool in their new sun glasses as they take a rest after walking around a shopping mall in New York City on the eighth grade class trip.

Jamie Devlin and Gina Cannizzo may be smiling for the camera, but they are also thinking of all the candy they will get after they put a curse on the town to give it all to them.

Even back in Middle School Jeff Kailher and Dave Hassan found time to strut their stuff for the ladies.

Shawn Kain, Meredith Grabowski, Jason Lawrence, Hilary Taylor, Todd Hammond, Jill Winston, and Kerry Derosier try to enjoy a nice quiet evening lounging around the house after a long evening of fun and dance at the semi.

Ryan Morgan gives the camera a big smile as he portrays an anglo-saxon outlaw during the Hanson 6th grade medieval day.

Leanna Lynch, Amy Dewar, and Sarah Bezanson "bust a move" to celebrate the last day of their junior year; however, they lack the expertise of Wayne Philbrook and Jim Byrne when it comes to "bustin' a move".

"A Night to Remember" was about to begin as the Class of 1996 headed off to the Pembroke Country Club for their Junior Prom. When the class members arrived in their fancy cars and clothes, the excitement began to build all around them.

Once they were inside, they received their dinner tickets (roast beef or chicken), and then headed off to find a table close to their friends. After dinner, the real fun began, as the cameras flashed, people smiled, and memories were frozen in time. The girls grabbed their dates and headed for the dance floor to begin a night full of fun and dancing.

"We've Got Tonight" was the theme song, and it fit the scene perfectly. There were fast songs and slow songs played throughout the night. The Electric Slide was a hit just as it is every year! Jim Byrne and Wayne Philbrook "bust a move" and helped put an interesting groove in the evening.

As the prom came to an end, the fun was far from over, as people went to their friends' houses or they continued the night at the East Bridgewater "Y".

Class Advisors Mrs. Linda McCann and Mr. Richard Davis were present. Mrs. McCann said, "It was a pleasure to spend a Friday evening with the Class of 1996 and their dates."

The Junior Prom ... June 9, 1995 ... a night never to be forgotten in the memorable images of the Class of 1996.

After a long day at the salon, Agnes Marriott, Jaime Burbine, Stephanie Gardner, Brooke Craveiro, and Michelle Ayer stop for a snapshot before hitting the dance floor at the Pembroke CountryClub.

Tom Cannon embraces Josh Dineen and Nate Baldwin saying, "Don't we look hot tonight!"

"Who's that gorgeous guy going by?" say Sarah Skarinka and Jenn O'Callaghan, while Melissa Merritt, Kathy Kryzanek, Tami Remedis, and Patrice O'Sullivan are fixed on the camera's lens.

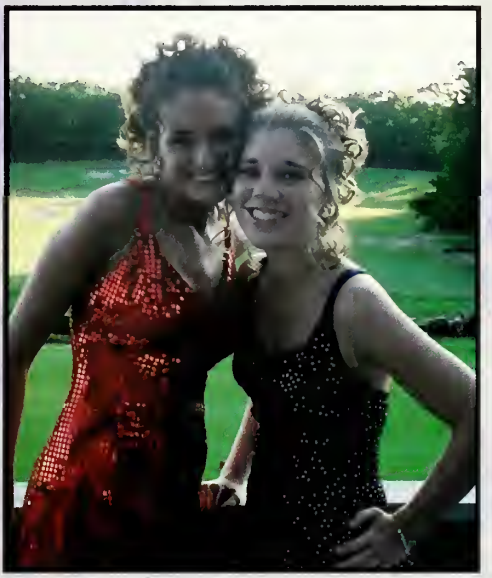
Directly Below: Jim Byrne and Wayne Philbrook "bust a move" as the crowd at the junior prom goes wild around them. The guys put on a real good show that night. Below: "Je pense donc je suis." (I think, therefore I am.) Jen Ridolfi recites a famous French quote.

Jen Gross and Jill Winston start off the evening by stepping out on the deck to get a quick breath of fresh air before heading inside to begin a night full of dancing and fun.



Nikki Daley, Amy Dewar, Stephanie List, and Sarah Bezanson decide who gets to take the centerpiece before leaving the prom.

"Now that you can do it, let's make a train now; come on baby, do the locomotion," sing Gina Cannizzo, Melissa Walker, Jackie Coste, Trisha Yost, Sue Warmington, Melissa Damon, Amy Badger and Amy Giaquinta.

Kara Shepard, Heather Towne, Kristy Blood, Janine O'Connor, John Folco, Andrea Hall, Jenn Staples, Leanna Lynch, Steve Phillips, Becky Plasse, Chris Dennehy Dave Billings, and Mike Callahan gather out on the deck for a group huddle to cool off before returning to the dance floor.

Summer is a time for friends, family, and fun in the sun. The three months of summer are the most enjoyable months of the year because they represent freedom and vacation from teachers' lectures, homework, and responsibilities ... and a time to party and stay up late. As senior Laureen Baker says, "Summer is a time to relax and have fun."

Jason Lawrence says, "Summer is a time to meet new friends, to live wild and dangerously, and to be free of rules and regulations."

SUMMER

Senior Allyson Murray thinks that summer is a time to "sleep all day and party all night."

So, for the seniors, summer seems to be a time to make memories that will last a lifetime. Whether summer is a time to relax, party, or just hang out with friends, seniors will always remember those days no matter how quickly they seem to go by.

This past summer is even more significant to the seniors. The memories created the summer before our senior year often turn out to be some of our most treasured memories ... as simple as a trip to a local beach, as exciting as a cruise to the Cayman Islands, or simply the last chance to create memorable times with close friends before they go off to their separate lives.

Hopefully, these two pages of the yearbook will help us to remember the images of those special times and how much they meant to us.

Trisha Yost, Matt Joyce, Jim Pierce, and Gina Cannizo relax after playing a friendly game of volleyball at Jayson Carrasquillo's house.

Pascal DuFour, a Belgian exchange student, experiences his first visit to the United States at Sandwich Beach, Cape Cod, Massachusetts.

Jen Medairos, Anthony Gill, Andrea Hall, Stephanie Gardner, Joe Carista, Michelle Ayer, Jaime Burbine, and Scott Lacey, all hang out at Nantasket Beach to celebrate the first day of summer.

Stephanie List and Amy Dewar move to the sidelines to take a quick break after a tough game of football, during a weekend trip to Maple Park Campground in Wareham.

Leanna Lynch and Jen Staples look a little too excited to be sharing the same bathroom stall at McDonald's in Hanson.

Jill Baglole, Meghan Clifford, Danielle May, and Kelli Cole quickly huddle under an umbrella to get away from the hot sun during a day trip to West Dennis Beach.

Bob Germaine strikes a pose as "Bullwinkle" on his vacation in New Hampshire.

Brooke Craveiro and Amy Giaquinta get a little out of control painting a shed at Brooke's house.

Above: Christen Emery, Erica Donahue, Sue Farrell, Heather Daley, and Brooke Sullivan get together at Erica's house after dinner at T.J.'s to celebrate Erica's 17th birthday.

Directly Above: While visiting Melissa's brother in Virginia, Jill Winston, Jen Gross, and Melissa Walker unexpectedly meet up with Mike Crowley and Ryan Petersen who were visiting Mike's brother ... who was also, coincidentally, in the Navy in Virginia.

Jill Parkinson and Katy Pearson are all smiles on a cruise to Cozumel, Mexico, Jamaica, and the Grand Caymen Islands with Susan's Studio of Dance in Hanson.

It is said that "man's best friend is a dog", but here at Whitman-Hanson, the students are proving that that's obviously not true ... and our proof may be as big as a horse and/or as small as a mouse.

W-H students have a wide variety of pets that are as different as night and day. Some of our pets are big, while some of them are small... some of them are brown ... and some are gray or white. Some, as shown, have four legs, while others may not have any legs at all. But, no matter what the physical features of our pets might be, they all have one very important element in common, and that is that they are our best friends forever.

Most of the yearbook readers will probably look at this section and think, "What do pets have to do with school?" Well, absolutely nothing! While pets may not be a part of school, they definitely are a big part of us and our lives.

This year the yearbook staff decided it would be a nice change to show a different side of the W-H H.S. students ... the loving, caring, and sentimental side. This, therefore, is why these two pages are devoted to our live-in house guests.

We thank those "little people" who have always loved and been there for us in our times of need ... our pets.

Puppy Love ... Jaime Burbine gives a warm welcome to her new pet, Kylee ... an obviously affectionate puppy.

Nikki Daley loves playing with her three dogs: Chance, Ringo (named after her favorite Beatle) and Doogie in her back yard.

Stephanie Gardner slaps a high five to her half Beagle/half Bassett Hound named Fred. Did you know Fred was born on Christmas?

Lisa Finocchi and her Golden Retriever Shelby show how much they enjoy each other's company by posing for a picture at Lisa's house, but it looks like something else besides the camera has Shelby's attention.

The purrfect pair: Stephanie Souza and her calico cat, Missi, show how photogenic they are.

These two are definitely not shy when it comes to posing for our yearbook. Linda Gerry proudly sports this season's newest fashion ... her bird Beretta.

Andrea Hall has two of these dogs ... Elvis and Sheeba ... miniature American Eskimo Spitz. This is Elvis ... who Andrea says ... smiles just like Elvis.

Mrs. Bergquist sits with her toy poodle, Nicole. Nikki spends long days at home while waiting for her master to arrive home from school. Nikki hasn't learned how to correct papers yet, but she did go on vacation this summer and for the first time flew on a plane to Florida. There's an old saying that dogs look like their masters. What do you think?

Fashion is like poetry ... it can have meaning in a variety of ways ... sometimes simple and sometimes unique. Fashion makes the individual and shows feeling about life. Fashion, like poetry, is a creative way to express everyone's different personality.

We wear styles from the past as well as trends of the 90's. There's a saying that "history always repeats itself" and as we are coming to a close of the century in fashion, we have brought back fashions from the 50's, 60's, 70's, presenting

and 80's, which have all together made up our fashion statement of the 90's. Seventeen magazine writes about the "Hits of the 70's, polyester times, being back in style." Yet, today's new fashion statements include backpack purses, tiny ties, dying of the hair, and overalls as expressions of today! And, of course, rain wear is in even under sunny skies. Seventeen magazine writes, "Why save it for a rainy day?"

From freshmen (remember those pegged pants and the two pair of colored socks worn at the same time?) to seniors, our taste in what we have worn has varied over the years.

Be part of the crowd, or dress the way you want ... whatever you decide ... your fashion creates your own personal image.

Julie Darcy doesn't mind showing off her unique style for the rest of her English class.

Wayne Philbrook stops to rest after busting a move in his favorite outfit.

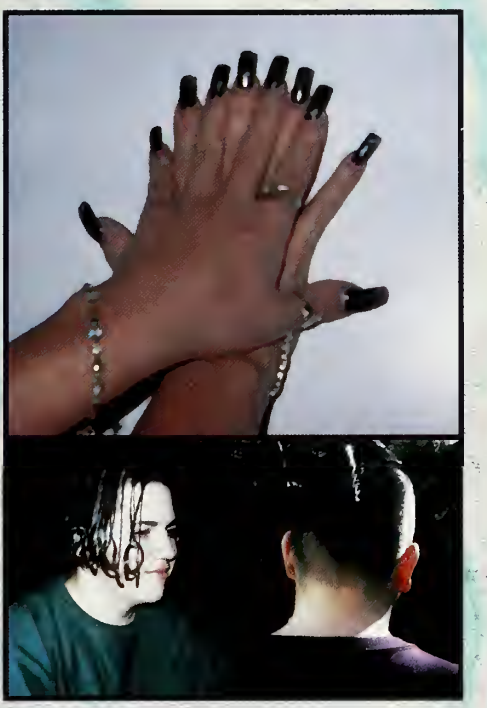
Jaime Burbine takes advantage of a beautiful fall day to sport her argyle patterned jumper and black turtleneck. Jaime refers to this outfit as her "ugly argyle outfit" because it's "just weird" she says, with a giggle.

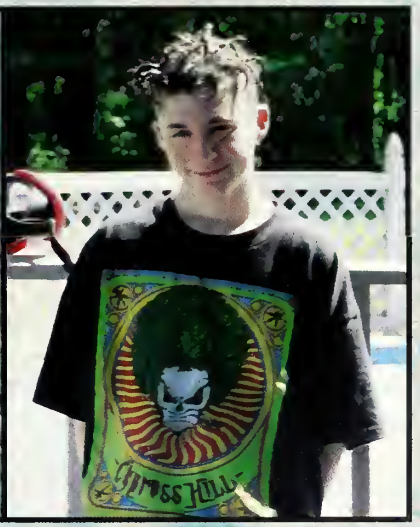
Stephanie Gardner laughs when she thinks of her thigh high white stockings. Not very practical but certainly a '96 fashion statement. How many pair does she own? At least a dozen or so, she claims.

A red vinyl skirt and a black tee-shirt with red x's and o's sported by Senior Agnes Marriott is definitely a Whitman-Hanson fashion statement.

Christine Keane shows off her school spirit as she goes from class to class with her red and black stockings.

Directly Below: Nails are a sign of one's personality. Stephanie Logiudice shows off her fashion sense with her extra special nails. Below: Senior Jayson Carrasquillo is definitely "doing" the dew. His variety of hairstyles is something to look twice at... and they just keep changing.





The style may be very long or very short. Here at W-H, legs are in.

A shot directly from Seventeen Magazine? Amy Giaquinta takes time to wonder if her latest fashion will still be in fashion in 1997.

Senior Heather Towne sports the latest in stocking fashion with the "net stocking" look. Her black and red colors are not only those of W-H, but also Coca Cola.

Yeah! It's true! Guys are hanging around the mousse and Clairol section of the stores also.

Is it nature and "too much fun in the sun" that has taken over Mike Jarrett's hair? Only his hairstylist knows for sure.

Chris McDougall, sporting his Cypress Hill tee shirt, takes some time out to do his hair before taking a jump in the pool.

The Whitman-Hanson Senior Superlatives continue to be in the yearbook and this year's superlatives are now even better than ever! Superlatives show who stands out the most among the Class of 1996 student body. It's a great opportunity for some of the seniors to show off what they really have.

After much anticipation ... and the votes were in and tallied ... the final results became part of the history of the W-H Class of 1996. It became apparent why the winners were truly ... the winners.

SENIOR SUPERLATIVES

Brian, Amy, and Meaghan's potential to push themselves to do their best and achieve the best resulted in their winning certain categories. Jeff and Hilary's eyes, after one glance, keep the viewer mesmorized for hours.

What about Wayne and Maura's ability to make a scene that will make anybody laugh? ... sometimes, even the administration. Lastly, why is it that Chad, Bob and Jill just have to smile and suddenly a person feels comfortable around them? They are the type of people that would love a turtle, hug a zebra, or never hit a squirrel crossing the road.

These are just some of the winners and the qualities for which they were chosen by their fellow Seniors.

The W-H Senior Superlatives are more than meets the eye.

SENIOR PORTRAITS

MORE THAN INDIVIDUALS

Each W-H Senior has a unique style. However, the Senior photos presented here, when looked at collectively rather than individually, make up a much larger picture: that of the Class of 1996. The Class is united by the spirit of Whitman-Hanson, the spirit of the Panther, and the spirit of red and black. The class members share a common bond that has linked two scared groups of Freshmen into one group of proud, spirited, strong Seniors. Since September of 1992, the bond has continued to grow stronger, until finally, on June 15, 1996, the classmates can smile with tears in their eyes and love in their hearts for those with whom they have shared so much. Individual stories blend together to create the story of the Class of 1996, and no matter who each person is, the class members understand that they will always share the undeniable Whitman-Hanson spirit with each other. Thus, as one looks at the following pages, he sees individual pictures, individual memories, and individual students. When he looks just a little deeper, he'll see not just individuals...but the Class of 1996.

Below: The eyes of Whitman-Hanson Seniors tell a story of fond memories of dress-up days, parades, dances, and rallies. The owner of these eyes is given on page 178 ... can you guess?

Below: A representative from the U.S. Coast Guard Academy tries to keep a straight face as he explains a pamphlet to clown Jill Baglole at the College Fair on Halloween Dress-Up Day.

Right: Gina Cannizzo, Senior, sits on the cafeteria floor at the Freshman-Senior Banquet, watching in amazement as the two classes get to know each other through a series of ice-breakers.

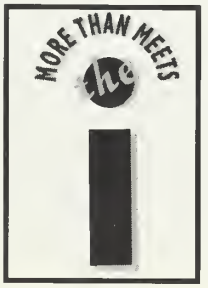
SPECIAL EVENTS

MORE THAN IMPRESSIVE

Special events at Whitman-Hanson are always full of fun and excitement. Whether there's haunting in the halls at Halloween, glitz and glamour for the semis and proms, or the band and majorettes are strutting their stuff in the Veteran's Day Parade, the students at W-H are amazing and impressive. Beyond their impressive front, these special events signify much more. During these times we can feel a unity between students and faculty. The pride that everyone holds for W-H is almost a tangible thing. The events are proof positive that the students of W-H can act in a mature and becoming way. The student body shows that it is deserving of the support it receives from the towns of Whitman and Hanson. In turn, the school exhibits its respect for the people of both towns and gratitude for all that is done for the high school community. Without these special events W-H would be an ordinary school. Instead, because of them and all they stand for, WHRHS stands tall among high schools ... and is certainly more than impressive.



The "big Seniors" and the "little Freshmen" joined together in the cafeteria for a night of icebreakers and laughs at the...

Right: “Hey, what is a Junior doing at the Freshman/ Senior Banquet?”, all the seniors say as Joe Brack takes a moment in the spotlight.

Below: "Gee, I didn't know freshmen could be this popular," says Zac Costa.

Above: Paul Ketchen runs to the front of the line to get first dibs on the tasty cafeteria cake.

FRESHMAN-SENIOR BANQUET

Below: During the game of "Pass the Card", Seniors Erica Donahue and Chris Frisoli show the freshmen how it's done.

Above: Laura DeChellis wonders when all the fun will start, while her friends are busy eating. "Hey, when was the last time someone fed you?"

The Junior and Senior classes, along with their dates, enjoyed an evening of glamour and glitz at the...

Right: Even though it was a rainy night, Seniors Matthew Deehan, Katie Kulle, Maureen Keating, and Stephan Nadeau still smile with great anticipation for the night.

Below: Everyone rushes to be the first ones on the boat for the night to begin.

Above: Janine O'Connor and her boyfriend Brian Palmer get ready to walk out the door to have a relaxing but exciting night on the "boat adventure" in Boston Harbor.

JUNIOR-SENIOR SEMI-FORMAL

OCTOBER 28, 1995

Above: Seniors Sarah Bezanson and Amy Dewar wonder how long it will take to get back to the dance floor.

Spririted students, and some teachers too, haunted the halls this year for their celebration of...

Right: Look at those sexy legs! They'd look even better, Jason Pierce, if you shaved them.

Below Left: (Mrs. Spear) The farmer and the cow, the farmer and the cow...

Below Right: (Kelli Cole) Hi hoe the dairy O' the farmer and the cow.

Above:Steve Lamarre and Mark Doyle as Mr. White and Mr. Blonde: "Are you going to bark all day little doggy, or are you going to bite"?

Above: Maura Paulsen and Alyssa Gabriel are plotting to take over Mr. Horkey's Biology II class. Wouldn't you?

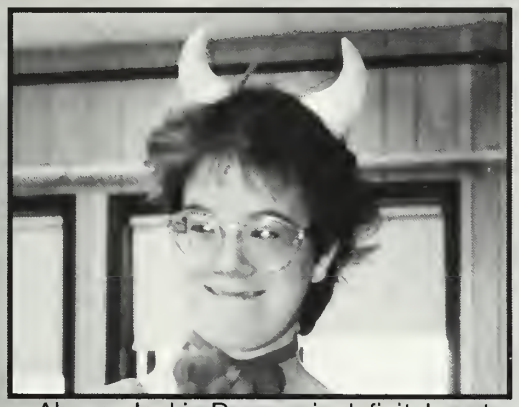
HALLOWEEN DRESS-UP DAY

OCTOBER 31, 1995



Above: Jackie Deegan is definitely not a devil, but only in disguise.

Below: Chandra Karlson, part of the clown mob, assumes a position of relaxation after doing some intensive inventory control in the DECA Store.

Above: Danielle May asks, "Where have my sheep gone?"

The Band played, the Cheerleaders cheered, and the Majorettes twirled during a great show of spirit at the...

Right: Well, what can we say except, what better way for W-H to start off its part of the parade than with its very own Panther banner?

Above: The 17 W-H majorettes, who ar under the direction of Mrs. Colleen Macci and Co-Captains Patrice O'Sullivan an Jennifer O'Callaghan, perform a routine wit their usual zest.

Above: The W-H Panther Band doesn' mind stopping for a minute or two becaus it's a great opportunity for them to show of their brand new uniforms. The band helpe pay for their uniforms by doing various fun raisers such as Tag days, candy sales etc...

VETERAN'S DAY PARADE

NOVEMBER 11, 1995

Above: The Majorettes smile brightly for the camera; they definitely have a reason to be smiling because they're the North East Regional Dance/Twirl champions; try saying that 3 times fast!

Above: The Marching Band, which is under the direction of Mr. Thomas Olivieri, proudly takes part in the Tri-Town Veteran's Day Parade every year.

The cast members put on a wonderful show, much to the delight of all who attended the production of...

Right: Philip Burtt-Henderson playing the lead role of "Tommy Albright" reminisces over the loss of his one true love that he had to leave behind in Brigadoon.

Above: .As the leading characters meet, only Fiona realizes they can never be together, unless Tommy is willing to give up his whole world for the sake of true love and stay forever with her in Brigadoon.

Above: Joseph Brack as Charles Dalrympl sings and toasts with the townsfolk to a happ song about his many women, for tonight he w be wed to his bonnie Jean (Marisa Connolly

Above: Janina Delloca-Pawlowski, as Agnes Beaton, gives the strange newcomer an attitude when he inquires about this odd village he and his companion have come upon.

BRIGADOON

NOVEMBER 17-19, 1995

Above: Mark Doyle as Mr. MacClaren and Joseph Brack ponder the spell that has been cast over Brigadoon 200 years before.

Above: Meaghan Geraghty as the lead "Fiona" and Mark Doyle duck out of the way of JoAnne Valle's (Meg Brockie) careless bucket swinging.

Above: Outsiders Philip Burtt-Henderson and Kelly Dynan, tired hunters, stumble accidentally into Brigadoon, as it appears suddenly, mysteriously, before their eyes. They can sense a strangeness about this village.

Above: Stage crew members Siobhan Creedon and Nicole Gardner hurry to finish the props in time for opening night.

THANKSGIVING RALLY

NOVEMBER 22, 1995

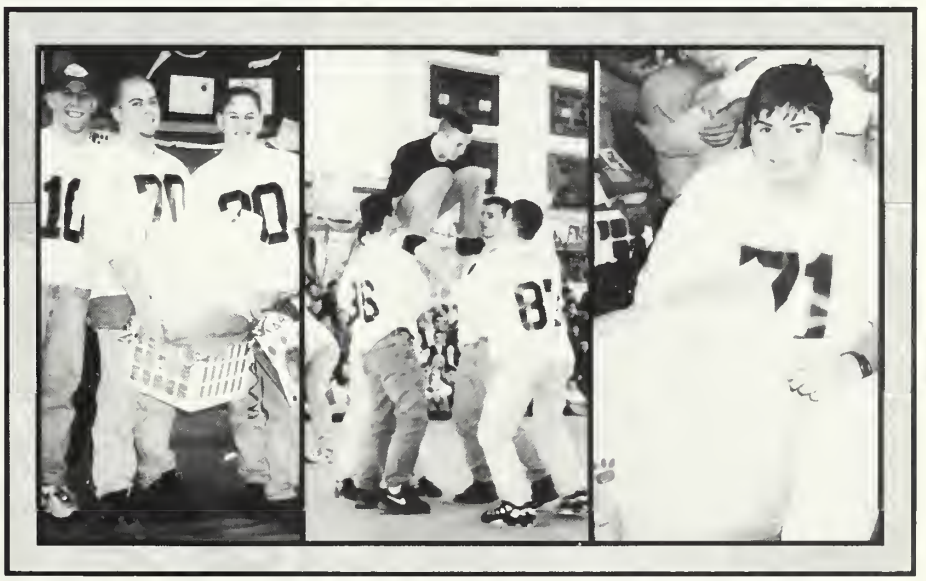
Below: The Senior girls finish the skits by forming a line dance to "Doing it My Way".



Above: Todd Hammond, Pat Kelly and Jason Lawrence smile and thank the girls for the goody bags.

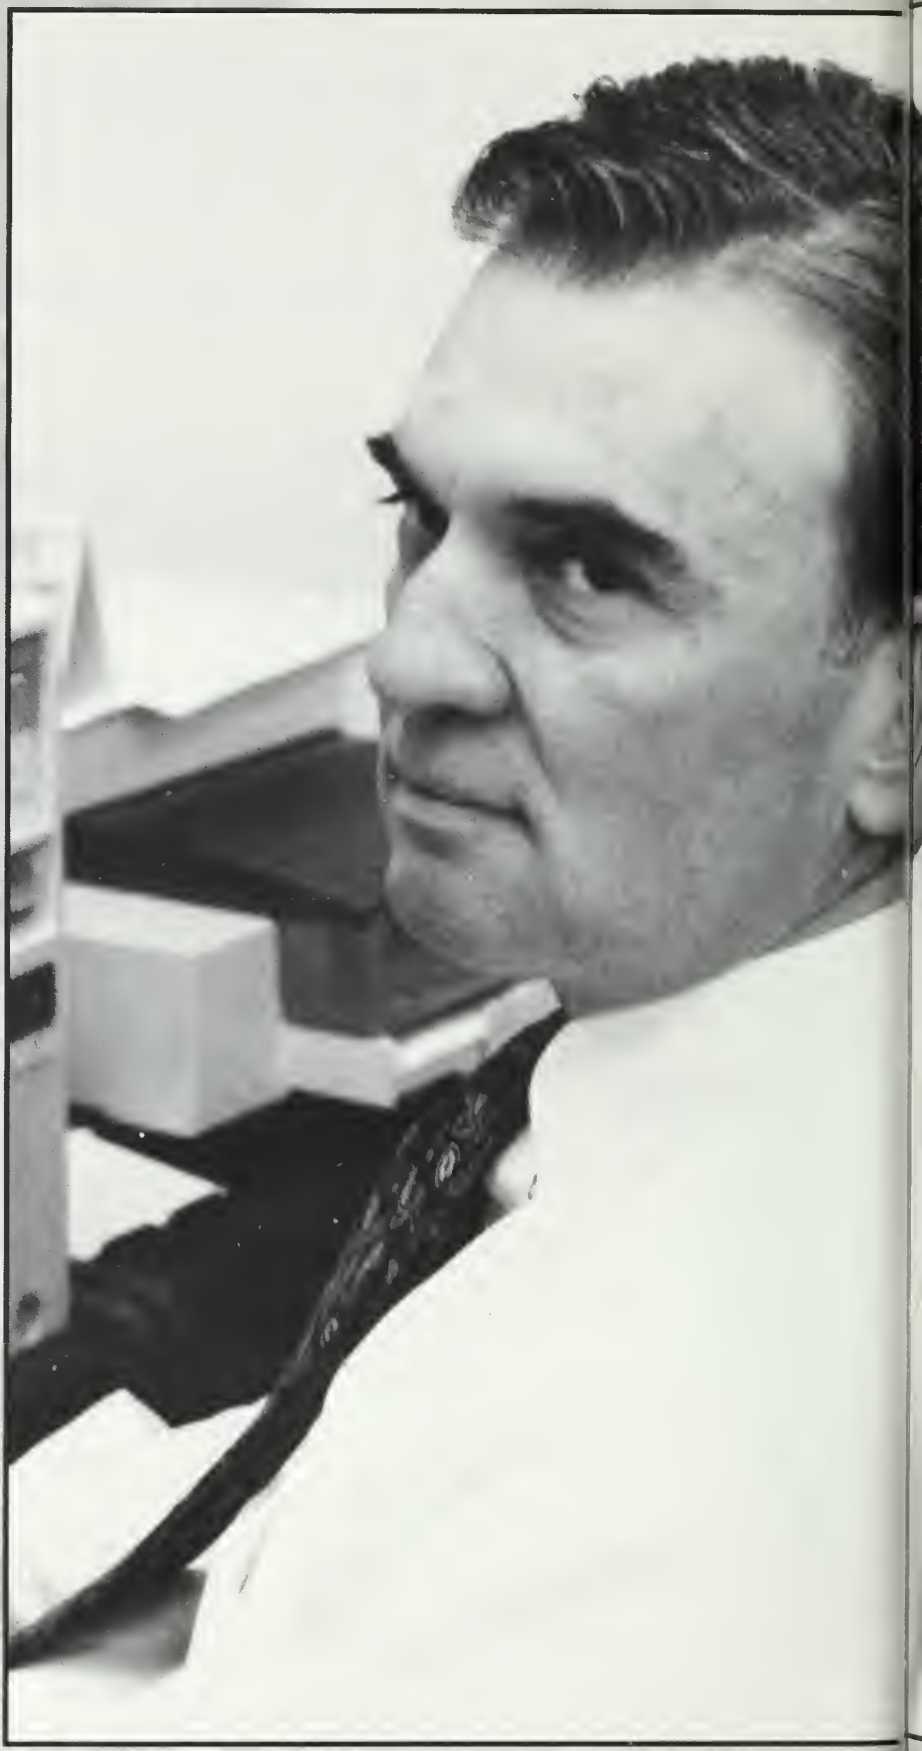
Below: The eyes of Whitman-Hanson Seniors tell a story of gratitude for the people who have contributed so much and been so dedicated...the faculty of W-H. The owner of these eyes is given on page 178 ... can you guess?

Below: Mrs. Meserve appears a bit frazzled after a rough morning of dealing with late students, questioning parents, and that darn photo copier that only she seems to be able to fix.

Right: Ms. Moss takes time out from her busy schedule of volunteering for Special Olympics, teaching gym classes, coaching cross country, and just being a dedicated faculty member to glance the camera's way.



Above: Mr. Robert Gay gives a thoughtful look as the 1996 school year, his first as Principal of Whitman-Hanson, draws to a close. As if the new position doesn't keep him busy enough...Mr. Gay perfectly fits the model of the Whitman-Hanson staff. Not only does Mr. Gay have a tremendous amount of responsibilty as Principal, but he coaches the ever-successful Wrestling Team.

PERSONNEL
MORE THAN INTELLECT

Keeping a school operating on an even course requires many different types of people. Of course there are the teachers. The teaching staff of this high school cares about every student's needs. They all care and work hard to give students the best experiences possible by expanding their horizons as well as their minds. They put in extra time as coaches, advisors, and therefore are the most caring teachers a student could ask for. What would W-H be like if teachers only worked until two? There would be no extra help, sports, or clubs. It really would only be a shell of a high school. They want each student to have a great experience in high school, as they once did. In fact, included in this section are some high school pictures that W-H students won't recognize as those of their classmates...they were once included as images in the high school yearbooks of faculty members! However, let us not forget the hard work put in by the custodians, cafeteria workers, secretaries, guidance counselors, and administrators, who also become involved in ways that are much more than meet the eye.

Featured in this year's faculty section are faculty members' very own senior portraits and/or yearbook writeups.

Below: The eyes of Whitman-Hanson Seniors tell a story of hours spent in classrooms and the vast knowledge gained. The owner of these eyes is given on page 178 ... can you guess?

Below: Matt Cadman, Senior, concentrates on his image as he begins to draw his self-portrait in his art class.

Right: As he peers into his microscope, Greg Everard, Senior, can't help but be reminded of the famous quote, "Eureka!" when he finally figures out what those little creatures are.

ACADEMICS

MORE THAN INQUISITIVE

The Academic Program at W-H aims at developing in students ... a love of the inquisitive ... the desire to be curious, questioning, probing, and thinking ... all elements of an inquisitive student. But, what about the other side of the W-H academic profile? The academic program also fosters other aspects of the W-H student - the opportunity to be expressive is apparent in the famous history projects that adorn Mr. Daley's and Mr. Floeck's rooms; the opportunity to be creative is seen in the masks the theatre art students create; the opportunity to be challenged is apparent in the writing of the Framingham History Papers and the Language Arts Spellman Essay Research Papers; the opportunity to be expressive is seen in the writing of the essay to be delivered orally in the Voice of Democracy contest. So, whether it be curiosity satisfied by a science fair project, independence developed in cooking, or problem solving mastered in chess, the total image of the W-H student is more than inquisitive.

Right middle: The corridors of W-H aren't just for passing from class to class - they're for socializing, taking a break from class, escaping the cold in the winter months, and for helping out a friend. Jeffrey Ray assists the injured Brad Stafford with getting to class on time.

Left Below: Lisa Hussey ... future paparazzo? ... looks very happy as she swishes her print around in the fixer and sees images to her liking appear. The Photography Class members, taught by Mr. Delaney, aspire to the heights of his photography, as seen in his spectacular fireworks shot on page 85.

Above: Self-portraits abound in the Drawing and Painting Classes of the Fine Arts Department. This bulletin board noticably draws interest as passers-by stand ... gaze ... and not only appreciate the self-portraits as art work, but also make decisions regarding who are the subjects of the self-portraits.

Foreign Language

Right above : H. Kaval Studios presents "We are the film buffs!" Even the most obstreperons student might learn to look at films in an entirely new way, after spending a term in this class.

Right middle: Who says that students don't show their affection/appreciation for their teachers? Sophomore Joy Wangnoon shows Senorita Tannian how happy she is that she just "Aced" the Spanish exam.

Left: Cynthia Cannon, Freshman, is already working her way up the ladder at W-H, as she works as an Options Student for Guidance. Here, Cynthia is placing "another important memo" in one of the department chairman mailboxes.

Right: What to eat? Where to go Friday night? Who's cute? Those are much easier decisions than waiting to be "guided" about all that serious stuff ... like what courses to take, when to sign up for the SAT's, and what college to go to.

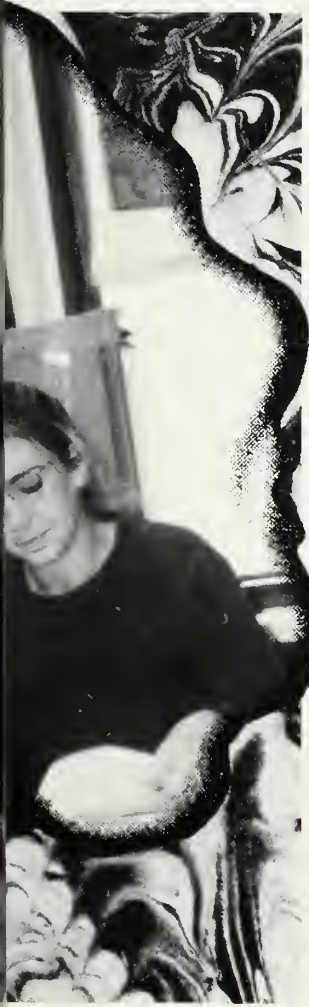
History

Above: There are many bulletin boards and creative projects on display throughout the school year in the halls of the History Department. This particular display shows Whitman-Hanson's committment to diversity through its celebration of Black History Month.



Left: And, the Prosecution rests, Your Honor. The "lawyers" finish firing question after question at the defendants in the mock trial.

History ...

Class of '96

Our days began in 1992,
Indian Head and Whitman Middle combined.
We joined lots of clubs and sports
Looking for a chance to shine.

Ryan, Rach, Lauren and Kel
we checked on our ballot slip.
They gave us a memorable year
Even after Lauren's clumsy trip.

Our first year of high school
Our style was a scare.
The boys had mohawks
And the girls had big hair.

We tried to sell towels;
no one seemed to care.
We had an "ice cream social",
But was anybody there?

We finally could chew gum,
for Otises we begged.
We thought we were cool,
But our pants were still pegged.

We went on a whale watch.
Some people didn't feel too hot,
But the day was tons of fun
And we saw lots of whales...not!

We crowded into dances.
"End of the Road" was our favorite song.
We stuck to our friends,
Too shy to get a groove on.

We went on our class trip;
Rocky Point was a ball.
We ate lots of food
And almost lost it on the free fall.

We were no longer Freshmen.
The first year was done.
We thought we knew it all;
Sophomore year had begun.

Although Girls Track
Received a great bruising,
Most of the Panthers
Went without losing.

The Olympics were held
And Kurt Cobain died.
Tonya beat Nancy while
Michael Jackson was tried.

Jurassic Park. Schindler's List,
hacky sacks were the craze,
But like all things they ended;
Nothing permanent, just a phase.

Our advisors, Davis and McCann,
A good job they had done,
We went to Six Flags
And we all had some fun.

When the year came to a close
Many legends left us behind.
We said farewell to our heroes:
Delorey, Irwin, Newcomb and Hines.

Mrs. Buckley's last year,
Upperclassmen we became.
We were sad at the loss
Of the Powder Puff game.

The Superbowl was ours;
In this we took pride.
Julia, Dina, Jill and Rach
Won us over by a landslide.

We all had great times
When we got our licenses to drive.
Even with SAT's, papers and more
We found the strength to survive.

The Senii came 'round;
In the boat we were squished.
Except for a few of us
The boat we did miss.

As summer grew closer
And students grew lazy,
Bust-a-Move brightened our lives
But drove our teachers crazy.

We all got dressed up
And drove out of sight.
We headed for Pembroke,
Singing "We've Got Tonight".

The Seniors finally left;
We let out a great cheer.
None of us could believe
It would be us next year!

When the summer ended
We went back to school.
The big, bad Seniors.
Everyone knew we were cool.

With Mr. Gay as our principal
And no homeroom to go to,
Football & Cross Country became cham
Just like they always do.

The girls won the Powder Puff.
The Fr-Sr Banquet didn't go as planned.
Surprisingly for us,
We got the banquet banned.

We watched OJ get out,
Acquitted for killing his kin.
The Math Team went to W.P.I.
And basically came back with a win.

Then Senioritis came
When we shoveled all the snow.
When will we graduate?
No one even knows.

Intramural Volleyball
Spiking it to win.
We're waiting for the colleges
To see if we get in.

The snow has finally melted away
And spring sports have begun.
Our teams will break more records
And we'll all be having fun.

Our night at Lombardo's
We'll dance the night away.
It'll be so much fun
We will all want to stay.

We'll all get together
For the last time as a class.
At our Senior Banquet
We'll all have a blast.

The day has come. After four years
We'll dress in red and black.
It is our time to graduate
And smile as we look back.

In '92 we came divided;
In '96 we leave together.
We take with us many memories
That will last us forever.

Right above: Stephanie List, Amy Dewar, Dara Meade, Sarah Goodale, Andrea Hall, and Jill Baglole play back-up to Leanna Lynch's antics during a pre-gym class snapshot.

Right middle: Craig Delgiacco, Bill Callahan, and Matt Small thoroughly enjoy their Child Development class. That's right - these guys sit amidst a room full of females to learn the ABC's of childcare. Here, they are taking notes on pre-natal child development.

Quotations

"You can't have an island of excellence in a sea of indifference." President, Carnegie Foundation

"The 4R's of Performance: What you Respect, Reward, Recognize, and Reinforce Gets Accomplished."

"Renaissance is a Journey, not a Destination."

"If we keep doing what we've been doing, we will keep getting what we've been getting."

"Far better it is to dare mighty things, to win glorious triumphs, even though checkered by failure, than to rank with those poor spirits who neither enjoy much nor suffer much, because they live in the gray twilight that knows not victory nor defeat."

"Excellence is the willingness to be wrong; perfection is being right. Excellence is powerful; perfection is judgement. Excellence is accepting; perfection is anger and frustration. Excellence is given; perfection is taken. Excellence is journey; perfection is destination. Excellence is trust; perfection is selfishness."

Reading Renaissance

Inquisitive... Probing... Curious...

Left above: Senior Michelle Graham relaxes for a moment and takes a break from the reading and writing skills taught in her Project Read class. Project Read is a method of teaching that involves the use of multi-senses, lots of repetition, and a systematic approach. This is the first year for Project Read at the high school, but it has been in place at the middle and elementary schools for several years. Class size is smaller than most other classes which enables students to receive more individual attention. The class is taught by Mrs. Pamela Nawrocki and Mrs. Pamela Cavangnaro, Teacher Aide.

Left below: Mrs. Karen Lozzi gleefully scoops vanilla ice cream for students who won Renaissance awards for their first term grades and attendance.

Remember When ...

Above: This Renaissance Bulletin Board assumes a prominent spot in the high school - enter front door, bear to the right, and there it is. The Leaning Tower of Pisa symbolizes the Renaissance Period in Italy. The various printouts list "words of wisdom" as they relate to the subjects of excellence and perfection. Some of these quotes are featured on page 79 under Quotations.

Left: Snow! Snow! Snow! Remember the snow days during the '95-'96 school year and that special one referred to as the "Blizzard of '96"? On the positive side, all those snow days allowed for an extra long holiday vacation, but on the negative side all those snow days caused the seniors to spend an extra six days in school in June. Cuddling for warmth at the height of a W-H mountain of snow are: Heather Towne, Brian MacDonald, Joseph Brack, and Thomas Ibbitson.

Jim and Wayne brought the whole school together in th bust-a-move contest? Now that's real school spirit.

Inquisitive... Independent... Problem solving...

Left above: Winners abound not only on the fields of Whitman-Hanson, but also in the classrooms. Each year, students win competitions, contests, and recognition in a variety of fields. Whitman-Hanson is always proud of its students who have accomplished outstanding success. Here, it's their teachers' turn to brag, as they report the various accomplishments of their students.

Left below: Xanadu...an idyllic, beautiful place...what else but the very essence of Student Life at Whitman-Hanson?

Above: Yearbook Class: First row: Mrs. Bergquist (Advisor), J. Burbine, S. Gardner, L. Mills; Second row: S. Souza, N. Daley, A. Dewar, S. List, L. Baker, B. Craveiro, J. Johnston, H. Towne; Third row: J. O'Leary, J. Lawrence, K. Kulle, J. Stoddard, J. O'Connor, J. Lynch; Fourth row: J. Ray.

...: Some Senior Superlative winners wave good-bye to their academic days at Whitman-Hanson. Although the Seniors will go their seperate ways, they will have this yearbook to reflect upon their awesome high school days - not only the time spent at Football games and proms, but also the countless hours spent in the classrooms of W-H.

Youth

Right above: Anticipation for the future was expressed on this warm fall day as Kindergarten students from Whitman and Hanson gathered on the front lawn of the high school for an impressive tree planting ceremony. The graduating class of 2008 was accompanied by administration, parents, and high school students on this important day.

Right below: Zenith...the highest or culminating peak...As fireworks explode with brilliant colors, the Seniors' excitement bursts at the anticipation of their academic accomplishments as their last year of high school comes to a close. (Photo by Mr. Delaney)

Zenith

Below: The eyes of Whitman-Hanson Seniors tell a story of hope and expectations for upcoming seniors, whether next year or in three years. The owner of these eyes is given on page 178 ... can you guess?

Below: Antonio "Tony" Stewart, Freshman, will fondly remember his Egypt project that became increasingly demanding because the materials he used were difficult to find and put together. He hopes his originality will earn him an A on his project...are you listening, Mr. Daley (Floeck?)?

Right: Greg Mara, Junior, Whitman-Hanson scholar and athlete, flirts with the camera and practices eye contact for his next Hollywood role.

UNDERCLASSMEN

MORE THAN INTERESTING

Everyone knows that the Seniors rule the school, but there is much more to Whitman-Hanson than just the Seniors. The underclassmen make up the majority of the school; if one takes the time to look at them, he will find out that they are definitely more than interesting. Sometimes they may be annoying, loud, and obnoxious, but they are also young, talented, and ready to try to experience everything. Each grade shows different characteristics and views. The Freshmen, the new crowd of students, look up to everyone for assistance in everything from homework to which bus they are supposed to ride. The Sophomores have the basics down pat, but they are still inexperienced in such things as who's in and who's out and what's in and what's out. And last, but not least, the Juniors pretty much know everything there is to know about high school (so they think), but they still envy the Seniors for the skill and effort they have put into the past four years.

CLUBS & ACTIVITIES

MORE THAN INVOLVEMENT

There are many clubs and activities at W-H to choose from - some with an academic bent, some with an artistic bent, and others with a musical or environmental slant. Almost anyone can find a club to suit his interests. Taking part in any club requires sometimes a little or sometimes an immense involvement from each individual. This involvement encompasses many components, such as dedication...dedication to spend every afternoon after school as does the Yearbook Editor, willingness to sacrifice...sacrifice hours of time marching in the band whether the weather be rain, sleet, or snow, and reliability...reliability to canvass the school every two weeks to pick up the paper to be recycled. The clubs and activities that help to make Whitman-Hanson what it is can be very rewarding, either with an actual award or just a rewarding feeling. These activities can also leave one with a sense of pride, happiness, and accomplishment. Clubs and activities are a big part of Whitman-Hanson. Involvement in these clubs is more than what meets the eye.

Spring meant success to the Whitman-Hanson Majorettes! The Majorettes gained enthusiasm with first and second place finishes at the Townsend Twirling Competition against high schools from several states. With first and second place trophies in the Dance and High School Twirling categories at the Northeast Regional Twirling Competition, the Whitman-Hanson Majorettes looked forward to the fall season!

Under the guidance of Advisor Mrs. Colleen Maccini, Co-Captains Jennifer O'Callaghan and Patrice O'Sullivan, and Seniors Marie Ketchen, Melissa Merritt, and Tamara Remedis, the Majorettes were on their way to an unforgettable 1995-1996 twirling season. The squad practices a minimum of three days a week to produce enthusiastic and thrilling routines that entertain crowds at home football games, Veteran's Day Parades, Hanson's 175th Anniversary Parade, the Thanksgiving Rally, and the Abington Band Jamboree.

Although the squad will lose the leadership of this year's Co-Captains and Seniors next year, there are promising underclassmen ready to carry on the winning spirit of the Majorettes. The Majorettes are looking forward to a continuance of their success with this year's Competition season. With challanging twirling moves and daring catches, the Majorettes always show their Panther Pride!

Mr. Davis not only gives his professional life to his business students but also gives his personal life to others in need.

Kings, queens, knights, bishops, and pawns are the tools of the Chess Club*. In its first year as a club at Whitman-Hanson, the Chess Club has approximately fifty members who gather to meet the challenge on Monday and Thursday afternoons after school.*

The club was organized as an outlet for students who are interested in chess and as an opportunity for students in the Chess Class to have additional opportunity to play chess other than in class time. In addition, the club allows a competitive forum for males and females to compete against each other.

An official member of the U.S. Chess Federation, the Whitman-Hanson Club this year meets informally, with W-H students competing against each other. Looking to the future, Mr. Belden, Advisor to the Club, says that perhaps not next year, but in its third year of organization, the club will become competitive with chess clubs from other schools in the area.

Expertise is not necessary to be a member, as any student, regardless of his level of play, may particiapte. However, eventually students will be leveled and play will be between students of equal ability. At times, instruction is given in the club, but learning techniques are primarily covered in the Chess Class, offered for its first time this year as an elective course in the Engish Curriculum.

Mr. Belden's interest in chess developed when he worked on his Masters Thesis: Introduction to Chess: A Curriculum for Secondary Schools. The results of his reasearch showed that learning chess has a direct positive effect on discipline, direction, school grades, and SAT scores.

WHRC - the first radio station in any high school in America - has been in existence for 19 years. Students belonging to the Whitman-Hanson TV/Radio Club have a lot of people looking over their shoulders to impress.

Led by Mr. Belden, the club is most known for starting the W-H day with its selection of music and its presentation of the morning announcements. Mike Bowden, the Radio Manager, carefully decides what goes on during this time. The morning crew consists of 8-10 student announcers including: Paula Post, Brooke Sullivan, Maura Clancy, Joe Brack, Mike Robillard, Rich Marnell, Eric Wagner, Rob Hunter, and William Emerson.

In addition to the morning announcements, the members DJ school dances and the 8th grade Recognition Dance in Hanson. This year the club will be participating in the March 1st Sophomore Class Lock In; they also edit TV tapes for teachers.

The equipment the club owns is considered "state of the art" for a high school. The TV equipment was purchased through a grant, and the radio equipment was purchased through club earnings.

In the future, Mr. Belden hopes to create a student television program that will air in the school and eventually air on local cable network.

What does it take to graduate among the Top Ten Students in a competitive class of almost 250? Just ask (First Row:) Brian Ciccolo, Meaghan Callahan, (Second Row:) Brooke Sullivan, John Bergeron, Danielle May, Amy Miles, (Third Row:) Patrice O'Sullivan, Kelli Cole, Kevin Kelly, and (Not pictured:) Danielle Ulwick. They'll tell you that devotion, dedication, maturity, intelligence, and interest matter, but, above all, it takes hard work.

The world doesn't stop for Framinghams and Calculus tests, yet these students are able to pull them off, seemingly with ease, while, at the same time, participating in a plethora of activities outside of the classroom. Brian, John, and Amy were able to lead the Math Team to an impressive League Championship, Brooke pulled off a third-place finish in the Massachusetts Junior Miss Competition, Danielle May and Kelli joined the other Girls Basketball players in celebrating yet another successful season, Amy worked toward the completion of the Yearbook as its Editor, and Patrice enjoyed twirling as Co-Captain of the Majorettes, yet these activites certainly didn't hinder the academic success of these students.

Being the best does not rely solely on doing homework "all the time", but rather on the idea of balance - each of the students graduating in the top ten, clearly, have, over their high school years, learned to successfully balance "work and play". The Whitman-Hanson community commends these exceptional students for their hard work and success. Congratulations.

The Language Club accompanied Whitman-Hanson's French students on a field trip to the Museum of Fine Arts this year. Here, the group huddles together to keep warm before they enter the Museum.

Peer Mediation is used to resolve student conflicts from everyday misunderstandings to actual physcial confrontations.

Usually, peer mediation is student initiated. W-H students who are in conflict and want to set up a mediation can go to a teacher, guidance counselor, or an administrator and request that a peer mediation take place. The administration may strongly suggest that a mediation take place if there has been a fight between students.

In preparation for the reinstitution of a Peer Mediation Program at W-H, the Brockton District Court mediators came to the school in June of 1995 to set up a Program. Years ago there was a mediation program in the high school, but it was more teacher to student based rather than student to student based. New techniques and a more comfortable environment for students have helped to solve approximately 12 conflicts this year.

Mrs. Gale Jones and Mrs. Elisa Dale, Faculty Coordinators, and Mr. Ed Walsh, Administration Coordinator, cite a successful first year. Mrs. Jones says,"... the kids in conflict are beginning to relate... They really like the idea of having other students help them to resolve their differences."

Do's and Don'ts of Mediation

1. Do listen carefully	1. Don't take sides
2. Do be fair.	2. Don't tell them what to do
3. Do ask how each feels.	3. Don't ask who started it
4. Do let each one state what happened	4. Don't try to blame anynne for the situation.
5. Do treat each person with respect	5. Don't ask, "Why did you do it?"
6. Do keep what you are told confidential	6. Don't give advice.

The Whitman-Hanson Math Team certainly has a lot to be proud of this year. They started the year off right by winning their first Southeastern Massachusetts Mathematics League meet, and then went ahead to finish off their winning streak by clinching the League Title.

The League Champions were led by Seniors Christopher Beal, John Bergeron, Brian Ciccolo, Robert Hunter, and Amy Miles and by Coach Mr. John Souther. Success was evident in the regular season league and in outside events as well. On October 19, Beal, Bergeron, Ciccolo, and Miles travelled as a team to the Eighth Annual Worcester Polytechnic Institute Invitational Mathematics Meet. They competed against 85 other schools at the Invitational, many of them private. The team was elated to learn that they earned a third-place trophy and a $1000 WPI scholarship for each of them - evidence of their mathematical prowess, their ability to work successfully as a team, and the work of their dedicated coach, Mr. Souther. Of his Mathletes, Coach Souther says, "When you have ... students of this caliber, you have to be optimistic. They are easy to work with, and they work hard. They study. They are nice people. And they like pizza."

Above: Brian Ciccolo, Christopher Beal, Amy Miles, Coach Souther, and John Bergeron pose at Worcester Polytechnic Institute just moments after winning the third-place trophy.

As for their plans for the future, the Seniors of the Math Team look forward to using their mathematical abilities in college, although all are undecided as to what school they will attend.

One thing is for sure though, the hard work of the W-H Math Team has paid off. The Seniors end their Mathlete careers as League Champions and, with many strong underclass Mathletes, Coach Souther can certainly look forward to many more victories.

Above: Members of the yearbook class work on yet another deadline wondering when will they ever be over?

As the weather grows warmer and the Seniors grow more and more anxious, so ends the 1995-1996 school year, and so end my days as Editor of the Whitman-Hanson Yearbook. It has been a pleasure, from my very first deadline to my very last, and I will truly miss each and every detail.

I would like to thank the individuals who have made my job worthwhile, even through stressful deadlines and long, hard hours. First of all, there would be no Whitman-Hanson Yearbook without the work of a dedicated advisor like Mrs. Bergquist. It is not every day that one encounters a person willing to devote so much of her time to the creation of what is a very demanding publication. A hard-working Yearbook Class certainly make the life of an Editor easier - they have done a wonderful job and have been extremely helpful this year. I, of course, would like to thank the faculty and administration of W-H - your support has been outstanding. Without the financial support of our Business Advertisers and our Parent Sponsors, certainly this book never would have been created.

Personally, thank you to my parents, who have proofread pages with me many times, and to my friends for putting up with my complaining on almost a constant basis - thank you for understanding. Lastly, my memories of working on the Yearbook would not be as wonderful as they are without having worked with two very capable and talented people - Christopher Shine and Christina Harrington...thank you for the good examples and the good times.

I leave Whitman-Hanson with a tear in my eye, and a large part of that sadness is from leaving what has become a very large part of me - the Yearbook.

~Amy M. Miles, Editor

SPORTS
MORE THAN ILLUSTRIOUS

The winning tradition here at Whitman-Hanson goes far beyond the school's illustrious football, track and wrestling programs. The team unity and social bonds found on W-H sports teams can't be measured in the win-loss columns. With such a large percentage of the school population participating, year after year, in athletic programs, it is clear that it is not just the thrill of competition that keeps W-H athletics alive. Whitman-Hanson students thrive on the pride for their teams, whether they are athletes or not. The dedication W-H athletes put into their sports is like nothing found anywhere else. Not only do players give their all on the track, field, ice, or court, but their commitment is shown in other ways as well. Dedication in the weightroom, dedication on the track and dedication on the field make W-H sports great. Illustrious individual teams and players will always be important to W-H, but the dedication and desire of the whole W-H athletic program are what will keep the winning tradition going for years to come.

King of the Atlantic Coast League - A tradition of excellence continues !

Football... fast ... ferocious ... fabulous

Playing tough is the name of this game. Pumped and ready to go are the boys of the W-H Varsity Football Team. At the beginning of the season, they said they were going to go somewhere, and boy did they ever! With the record of 9 and 1 - one loss to Marshfield - they sure did show their stuff.

According to Coach Bancroft, "This team was full of character. Especially after the loss to Marshfield, they really showed a lot of heart by coming back and winning the 12th championship in a row."

Most of the football players this year just happened to be seniors, so they understood just how hard it is to maintain a record of such quality. They knew what it would take to be the best on the field.

Football Co-captains Pat Kelly and Chris Frisoli, both 3 year Varsity Lettermen, were both named to the Atlantic Coast League All Star Team.

Senior Pat Kelly pointed this out by saying, "We played well this year. We had a lot of seniors who were able to step up and fill empty spots in the line and on defense."

Senior Chris Frisoli, a three year starter for the powerful Panthers, scored 11 touchdowns, averaged 8.57 yards per carry with more than 1,000 yards gained in his senior year, and who was also a member of the Atlantic Coast League all-star team stated, "We were a great team. We played well all year. The backfield was a key this year with a lot of senior players."

Chris McEwan, named to the Boston Globe and Patriot Ledger 1995 All-Scholastic Football Team, made 72 tackles and 8 sacks during the season. Also the W-H kicker, McEwan gave W-H excellent field position. He averaged 39.5 yards on punts and 47.6 yards on kickoffs.

The Boys Varsity Soccer Team, led by Coach Barrington and Co-captains Christopher White and David Hassan, ended the season with a final record of 5-8-5.

The high point of the season, according to Juniors Jeffrey Ray and Daniel Libby, was the 1-0 victory over Sandwich. It was early in this game that Bradley Stafford, also a Junior, suffered yet another soccer injury. He, unfortunately, broke his leg, putting him out of the game and out of play for the rest of the season. The other players pulled together and won the very aggressive game, overly gratified with their performance.

Varsity Soccer Team: Co-captain Christopher White, Coach James Barrington, and Co-captain David Hassan.

After last year's best ever final record of 12-4-2, expectations were very high. The nine seniors went into this season with pride and confidence. Even though they didn't do as well this year as last, they proved to have great sportsmanship and never gave up hope.

Christopher White feels he and the other team members had more fun this year than ever before. He says, "Even though things didn't turn out the way we wanted, we worked hard and had fun."

Coach Barrington witnessed a very competitive year full of teamwork and the possible realization that overconfidence led the team to some of its defeats. He is now looking forward to next year's promising lineup. This year may have been a lesson for next year's team. They now know what to work on, so that they can have another record-breaking year.

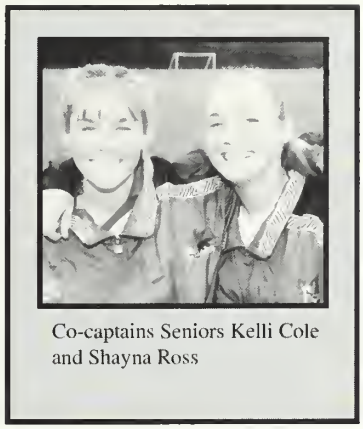
Top flight girls' soccer action ... each game an event to be remembered!

Girls Soccer ... sensational ... super ... spectacular

An impressive beginning marked the start of the Whitman-Hanson girls soccer team as it defeated the Duxbury Green Dragons (Divison 2 champions last year) 1-0 and tied the Marshfied Rams (Division 1 champions last year).

As a member of one of the toughest girls soccer leagues around, the W-H Panthers finished the season with a 12-4-4 record. Coach Glenn Ward, proud of his team's victorious season, said, "We played in a great league and [this year] did some things we have never done before."

The team advanced to state tournament status with its decisive 3-0 win over Hingham in October and its 1-0 Division I win against Falmouth in November. A 4-0 loss against nationally regarded Newton North knocked W-H out of tournament play, but according to Coach Ward, "We lost to a better team."



Co-captains Seniors Kelli Cole and Shayna Ross

The Panther soccer records were impacted by three outstanding players: Shayna Ross set a school record for shutouts; Rachael Bates, known for her finesse on the soccer field, broke the school's scoring record for both goals and points in a career; and Danielle May was a starter in every game since her freshman year.

This year the team instituted team spirit dinners. Held several times during the season before big games, they helped to keep the team unified.

Co-captain Kelli Cole spent most of the season out of play due to a torn ligament. A mid-season attempt to return to the game caused reinjury. Of the year, Cole says, "No one believed we would be as successful as we were, after losing six seniors; however, we proved them wrong. I think the secret to our success was that we never stopped having fun."

Boys ACL Champs for fourth consecutive year; Girls finish strong!

Cross Country... cool ... calm ... collected

The Boys Cross Country Team added another victorious season to its three year winning streak. The boys finished the 1995 season undefeated, making them the Atlantic Coast League champions four consecutive years in a row.

Not only did the Senior Tri-captains Robert Hunter, David Billings, and Martin Tannian lead the team to an undefeated season, but the team also continued on to win second place in the State Championship and second place in the Eastern Massachusetts Championship.

The tri-captains weren't the only runners on the team recognized for outstanding achievements and efforts. Nathan Billings and John Drewniak received honorable mentions in The Enterprise. Matthew Small was recognized as an All-Scholastic in both The Enterprise and in The Patriot Ledger, and Scott Wisnaskas was voted All-Scholastic in The Boston Globe, The Enterprise, and The Patriot Ledger.

Although the team won't have its illustrious captains to lead them next year, they will have many good runners to lead the team to victory.

Tri-captains, Martin Tannian, Robert Hunter, and David Billings are proud to say that they successfully led the team to another undefeated season.

Senior Co-captains, Meaghan Callahan and Heather Daley, always show their Panther pride with smiles on and off the track.

The Girls Cross-Country Team may not have gone to any Championship meets, but they were led by Captains Heather Daley and Meaghan Callahan to improve their previous year's record of 4-5 to 5-4.

Two of the outstanding runners on the 1995 Team were Sue Messinger and Julie Murray. Sue was voted All-Scholastic in The Enterprise. She also attended the All-State Meet for her second year in a row. Julie Murray was also voted All-Scholastic in The Enterprise and finished the season undefeated for the second consecutive year. She attended the All-State Meet with Sue for the first time in her Cross-Country career. Of the All-State Meet, Julie said, "...I feel like a winner just being here. You know everybody here is a top runner."

The girls will lose their Senior Captains Heather and Meaghan, but they will have many outstanding runners next year for the 1996 season, including, of course, Julie Murray and Sue Messinger.

Two enthusiastic and athletic teams at W-H - dedicated and devoted!

Football & Basketball Cheerleading ... captivating ... capable ... cheerful

The Football Cheerleaders are one of the four enthusiastic and athletic teams at W-H. Coached by Mrs. Katherine Getchell, the 16 dedicated girls not only get the crowd going but work hard to do their best while performing.

This year the girls competed at a competition hosted by Emanuel College. The Varsity Team gave an outstanding performance and the JV team walked away with a 1st place trophy and a bid to perform at the Citrus Bowl next New Year's Day. In addition, they "performed well" in a competition at BC High.

They are also cheering for the 7th year at the Shriner Game in June, have helped at the VA Hospital, and evoked many smiles at the Veteran's Day Parade and the Hanson's 200th year parade.

Varsity Cheerleader Captains: Katy Pearson, Meredith Grabowski, Lauren Belden.

Senior cheerleaders Lauren Belden and Brooke Sullivan were both invited to cheer in the Hula Bowl in Hawaii during the Christmas vacation, but chose not to. In order to qualify for this prestigious honor, they had to have at least a 3.0 GPA and to have performed outstandingly during competition.

This year the Basketball Cheerleaders have shown the Panther fans new efforts and stunts to show their support for the team. A great deal of hard work and devotion is necessary for a team to achieve what these cheerleaders have achieved. They do what it takes to keep the spirit of the team and fans up.

These girls cheer at a minimum of one basketball game per week during the winter months. They cheer because they want to make everyone proud to have Panther pride. These girls have shown up everyday after school to practice their routines for up coming games. Dedicated and devoted are these Whitman-Hanson cheerleaders.

Members of both the football and basketball cheerleading squads attended camps at Wheaton College and one hosted by Cheer Ltd. At Wheaton they received a first place trophy in the "cheer" category and at Cheer Ltd. they received a bid to compete at the CANAM in Myrtle Beach.

Most of these girls coach at the youth level and every youth squad received trophies at a recently held Old Colony League Competition.

Team in every game ... frustrating season ends 9-11

Boys Basketball ...brawny ... bold ... boldacious

This year the Varsity Basketball Team attacked another season. The team, made up of seven seniors and seven juniors, led Whitman-Hanson to nine victories including the defeat of Dennis-Yarmouth (68-63), Middleboro (53-45), and Harwich (67-49).

Kevin Cadres, Chris McEwan and William Hurley are three athletes who stand out amongst the other good athletes on this team. Kevin Cadres had the highest foul shooting performance, was the best outside shooter, and was second on the team in assists. Chris McEwan led the team in rebounding, was the team captain, and was the team leader on and off the floor. William Hurley , the player with the most enthusiasm, led the team in total points scored and field goal percentages, was second on the team in rebounding, and was third on the team in assists.

Chris White won accolades as the most improved player of the year, playing several different positions and becoming the best offensive player.

The most memorable games of the season, according to Coach Sweeney, were the two wins against Marshfield. W-H was the only team in the league to beat Marshfield twice and to shut down two of the leagues leading scorers.

The two hardest games were the losses against Dennis-Yarmouth and Plymouth which took W-H out of the state tournament play.

W-H won the Sacred Heart Tournament for the second time, beating the top teams in Division 4. Chris McEwan and Bill Hurley were named all-stars.

Although a frustrating year, W-H was in every game and lost seven games under five points.

Girls Basketball ... big ... bold ... brave

The girls basketball team has had a highly competitive season under the direction of coaches Mr. James Daley and Ms. Pam Gould and Tri-captains Rachael Bates, Meghan Clifford, and Shayna Ross. Forced to strive for their best, they ended their regular season with an outstanding record of 16-6, placing them second in the Atlantic Coast League.

In the memorable game against Duxbury, with five seconds left in the game, Rachael Bates was fouled and sent to the line to shoot foul shots. The game was won by one point scored at that moment.

When the girls played Plymouth-North, their expectations of a win were minimal because this team was undefeated. The Panthers did, however, go on to win this game and were the only team to defeat Plymouth-North the entire season.

Their win against Sandwich was their tenth win in a row, placing W-H second in the league. Seniors Danielle May, Shayna Ross, and Jill Baglole say of the season, "We started out slow, but by the end of the season our team really came together and finished strong, winning eleven out of our last twelve regular season games."

During the winter season these girls practice endless hours running laps, practicing lay-ups, jump shots, etc. In the summer many of these girls will also attend some of the most enduring, but beneficial, basketball camps.

The Whitman-Hanson girls basketball team has worked hard to get where it has. They now have their goals set on playing well in the play-offs and also in the all star games which Meghan Clifford and Rachael Bates have been selected for. "When you come together as a team, you can accomplish anything if you believe in yourselves," says Shayna Ross with confidence about the Panthers.

The six senior girls, Meghan Clifford, Rachael Bates, Shayna Ross, Danielle May, Jill Baglole, and Kelli Cole have put their last high school games behind them and now look to what the future may hold.

Boys run to win; girls strength and talent revealed!

Winter Track ... winded...wage...weary

Boys and girls winter track teams worked hard for another successful year. With only two Seniors, Co-captains Heather Daley and Kerrie Gilmetti, the girls worked hard to bring the team to a strong season. Even with a bad knee, Junior Elizabeth Kelliher led the girls track team to many successful wins. The girls finished 4 and 4 during the season.

Co-captain Kerrie Gilmetti feels that "track is a place to go if you want to get your mind off things and have fun." Even with an improved season the girls still didn't attain the record that they had hoped for.

With two big wins against Middleboro (68-15) and Norton (65-14), the Girls Winter Track Team has proven itself to be stronger than once thought.

The boys are led by Co-captains Rob Hunter and Bob Germaine. With a very successful year, the boys hoped to win another Pilgrim Conference. Junior Scott Wisnaskas has proven to be a great asset to the boys track team. As Scott says, "after a tough, early season loss, the team pulled together and finished a successful year". The boys finished with a record of 5 and 2 during the season.

With three big wins against Middleboro (71-15), Plymouth North (75-11), and Norton (71-15), the Boys Winter Track Team has proven its strength. Only one major loss against New Bedford (34-52) kept them from competing in the Pilgrim Conference Championship.

With the great coaching of Mr. Black and Mr. Newcomb, the boys Track Team has had another successful year, and the girls continue to improve.

Wrestling Team ACL Champions - 5th year in a row!

Wrestling ... willful ... wily ... wonderful

The 1996 wrestling season brought W-H Principal/Coach Robert Gay and his team to place second at their invitational tournament and to win the Atlantic Coast League Title.

In his tenth consecutive year as head coach for the Panthers, Mr. Gay, proud of his well-rounded team said, "This year's team over-achieved, making it a fun team to coach and an exciting team to watch." With only two losses, the Panthers were almost an unbeatable team.

With their first victory of 46-36 over Southeastern, the Whitman-Hanson Wrestling Team went on to win many more exciting meets. Under the guidance and captainship of Senior, Shawn Kain, the Panthers formed what seemed to be an unbeatable team. With a final record of 6 wins and 2 losses, Captain Kain said about his team, "I had a lot of fun wrestling this year." He added that we met every challenge head on.

Wrestling Captain Shawn Kain with Coach Robert Gay at a Whitman-Hanson quad meet.

The team's record qualified W-H to participate in the sectionals, the states, and the all-state tournament.

13 wrestlers, including Seniors Ryan Kerrigan, Jeffrey Kailher, Shawn Kain, Justin Lopes, Thomas Finn, and Brian Mason attended the sectionals. Ryan Kerrigan, Shawn Kain, and Jeff Kailher placed first and, therefore, were qualified to move on to the states. Justin Lopes and Brian Mason placed fourth, while Thomas Finn came in fifth.

At the states, Ryan Kerrigan placed 3rd and Shawn Kain placed 2nd. Jeffrey Kailher sustained a concussion and had to withdraw from the competition.

At the all-states Kerrigan placed 4th and Kain placed 5th.

Kailher adds, "Thank you to Coach Gay. I had a great time during this past season. It proved to be a wonderful experience."

W-H's disciplined athletes - rough and tough!

Hockey ... hard ... hectic ... heroic

This season has been a challenging one for the W-H Hockey Team. With the loss of ten talented seniors from last season and the loss of Head Coach Bob Corliss (who led last year's team all the way to the state finals), the team struggled early in the season.

Despite the setbacks, W-H's young team worked hard to be their best. With the leadership of Junior Captain Brian Geever, the experience of the veteran players, and with the help from fresh new talent, the team pulled it together to make it a successful season.

Part of the team's enthusiasm came after their success in the Cashman Tournament played over the holiday break. The first of the two games was played against Rockland which the team won 3- 3 (by a coin toss). The second game was played against Abington in which W-H was victorious by a score of 4 to 3. Brian Cushing received the M.V.P. award for his outstanding goaltending in the tournament.

The All-Star game was a great success, as the Atlantic Coast League left as the victor. W-H's Brian Cushing was selected to the All-Star Team and was the only goalie who turned back all the opponent's scoring bids; Brian Geever, Jim St. Croix, and Jason Lawrence received honorable mentions as Atlantic Coast League all-stars.

Newly appointed coaches Joe Bina and Rich Manning assumed their coaching responsibilities in December, while the team was in the middle of a losing streak. These former W-H hockey players worked hard to get the team reorganized and turned the season around.

Overall, the season was a learning one for the Panthers. The team competed in a tough league and finished with a record of 7-10-3. The team managed to give each game an all out effort. This hard fought season is one the Panthers have learned and will grow from.

Leading scorer for the team, Jason Lawrence summed up the season by saying, "We struggled by having only three returning starters from the state finals last year, but we gave the season our best effort."

"Losing 10 great players and losing our head coach in the same season could affect any team, but we didn't realize how good we could play until it was too late."

Special Olympics ... superb ... strong ...skillful

Gold medals, silver medals, bronze medals. Each year, the Special Olympians work very hard to garner as many medals as possible.

The Special Olympics students participate in many activities such as basketball, soccer, bowling, track and field, and swimming. In addition, this year the athletes participated in the Special Olympics Mall Walk on Halloween of '95. "We won many prizes and had a very exciting day!" says Kellie Ward.

Each student represents Whitman-Hanson as an individual. Each of the athletes has won many awards, and some have even gone to the state finals in all of the events.

Whitman-Hanson Special Needs Students gather together for a group picture at the state cycling finals at Byfield, MA in November with the head of the pack, Mr. Odom.

The Special Olympics Panthers consist of Kurt Dosenburg, William Campbell, Lisa Joseph, Kellie Ward, Kimberly MacDonald, Brian Locke, and Jackie Deegan. There are many people who help out with the Special Olympics events such as Ms. Moss, Mr. Odom, and many other volunteers, including several Options students and the members of the Whitman-Hanson Key Club. Not only do they help teach the students skills to help them in everyday life, but they also assist the students on an emotional level.

Each year, Whitman-Hanson recognizes these special athletes at one of the school's most favorite assemblies. Escorted by National Honor Society members, the Special Olympians march into the school auditorium, are guests of honor to speeches by school dignitaries, and then receive their medals.

Ms. Moss, one of the leaders in the Special Olympics Program, participates as an advisor not only on a local level, but also on a state and national level.

Hockey/Competition Cheerleading ... Confident ... Coordinated ... Competitive

The Whitman-Hanson Varsity Hockey Cheerleading squad has a sharper image this year due to new uniforms and a new coach. The squad is made up of six seniors, five juniors, one sophomore, and two freshmen. "The squad is looking better than ever," says Mr. Bancroft, W-H Athletic Director.

There are two senior captains, Stephanie Gardner and Agnes Marriott. They have worked hard along with Mrs. Marriott, the coach, to make this season successful so that there can be a squad next year.

Leanna Lynch and Becky Vail deserve special recognition for the extra help and effort that they have contributed to the squad. Becky, a junior, who is now in her third year on the squad, has been a great help to the captains from teaching the cheers to coming up with new ideas. Leanna, a senior, who is in her second year on the squad, has choreographed a great new dance for the squad, which has never been done before. Overall, the girls have done a great job this season, and the school is proud to have these girls as representatives.

Katy Pearson and Meredith Grabowski (left), along with Lauren Belden (right), are the captains of the Whitman - Hanson Competition squad. With their great leadership and team support they will be taking their squad to Myrtle Beach again this season for the big competition.

Mrs. Kathy Getchell (far left) and Mrs. Maureen MacKenzie (left) have been coaching the competion squad together for five years.

The Competition Cheerleaders are going to Myrtle Beach again! They have worked hard to pull off a great routine, full of magnificent stunts and great new cheers. The girls should be very proud of themselves; it takes a lot of confidence and coordination to go out in front of those judges and compete.

In order to become a competition cheerleader, there are some qualifications that must be met. A girl who wants to be on the competition squad must try out for the football and basketball cheerleading squad. After making both of the squads, she must then tryout again for the competition squad.

Mrs. Getchell and Mrs. MacKenzie could not be more proud of the squad. It is made up of six seniors, three juniors, six sophomores, and four freshmen. The squad has representatives from each class, and they all work so well together on and off the competition floor. The girls have done various fund raisers for their trip, including canning in front of the grocery stores and holding bakesales. Some have traveled as far as Kingston, and people still offer a helping hand to our competition squad. Good luck girls!

Andy's eyes express gratitude towards his mother for her support throughout his high school years. The Yearbook Staff thanks Mrs. Balasco as a parent sponsor, as well as the other supportive parents who helped to make the 1996 Retrospect possible.

SPONSORS
MORE THAN IMPORTANT

What initially meets the eye is that the business advertisers and the parent sponsors of the 1996 Yearbook are important because they provide financial support to help in a costly endeavor, publishing the yearbook. Although each year the cost of printing yearbooks increases, the generous and loyal support of the business advertisers and the parent sponsors help to keep this increase at a minimum for the W-H students. What doesn't initially meet the eye is the fact that the businesses and parents are so enthusiastic and interested in helping to support the 1996 yearbook. Within days of the mailings to the businesses and the parents, responses begin to arrive in the yearbook office. Each parent message is heartfelt, sensitive, and an important expression of their feelings for their graduating Senior. In addition, the businesses, although innundated by requests from every concern or agency needing financial support, always lend a helping hand and dollar to the W-H Yearbook. The W-H Yearbook Sponsors are more than important...they are crucial, generous, and very much appreciated.

PARENT CONGRATULATORY MESSAGES/SPONSORS

The Sponsor Section of the Whitman-Hanson Yearbook includes Parent Congratulatory Messages and Business Advertising. Thank you parents for your financial support of our yearbook and for your emotional support of our graduating seniors.

Another year has come to a close ...
And with that closing are a few final comments from members of the Class of 1996 ...

MORE THAN MEETS the i

Thank you for the great memories Whitman-Hanson! - Jennifer O'Callaghan
Thanks for the memories Whitman-Hanson. I had a great time. I'm going to miss you. - Pat Kelly
I know that high school has been a big undertaking, but now that it's time to leave, I'm not ready to go and leave all my friends and family I have here. - Jacqui Connolly
When I think of leaving Whitman-Hanson, I feel sad about many good friends, good times, and good teachers that I'll be leaving. I also look to the future with anticipation and excitement. - Patrice O'Sullivan
All my memories are from this great school. I loved my years here and the education it has given me. - Ryan Peterson
High school was a place full of memories and also a place to grow. - Brooke Craveiro
I will always remember the friends and how great the teachers are. Carpe diem. - Agnes Marriott
Ever since we arrived here we've been looking forward to graduating, but now that we have to say goodbye, I know that I'm going to miss seeing everyone. - Nikki Daley
These last four years have been some of the best and the worst days of my life, but as my mom always said, you'll never find friends or make memories like you do in high school. - Jaime Burbine
Like a rollercoaster, we've had our ups and downs. We look forward to the future and say goodbye to some dear friends. I'll miss each and everyone of you. I'll never forget any of you ... then again, how could I forget this class? - Heather Marie Towne
All four years you look forward to saying good-bye, but when the day finally arrives, it makes you want to cry. You learn to appreciate whatyou had - both the good and the bad. So, when I say good-bye, I mean it with every sigh. - Stephanie List

And, with that, the 1996 Retrospect is drawn to a close. Thank you, Whitman-Hanson, for special friends, good times, excellent opportunities exceptional mentors, wonderful experiences, and, most importantly, lasting memories...I've enjoyed each and every one. Whitman-Hanson Regional High School and the Class of 1996 have certainly proven themselves to be much more than meets the i. - Amy Miles, Editor
